For singer-songwriter Chris Long, music is an adventure that keeps getting better and better. He grew up with a father who was a musician, and learned to play guitar at age 12. Since then, the adventure's just kept going. Chris Long writes and performs music from the Heartland, Roots Rock & Americana genres.

Chris played in two bands with his father in the late 90s and early 2000s. They played together in the bands Sloe Ginn and Stonewall Gray. Since then, he's moved away from performing with a group to focus on a career as a solo singer-songwriter. He has performed across the US and internationally, including performances at Nashville's famed Bluebird Cafe and The Commodore. Chris has graced the stages of Dollywood's famed DreamMore Resort, Jim Oliver's Smokehouse and the infamous WDVX "Blue Plate Special" along with radio & television appearances.

Chris's music blends Americana and rock to create a rough yet classic sound. His focus is on telling stories of everyday life and the world around him through his songs.
